

Inquiry learning: evidence of 'what works'

Think about your own classroom. What evidence could you use to support claims that the inquiry approach is effective?

What mathematics or science are your students learning?

How engaged are your students? Does this mean they are learning?

What other evidence of learning could you provide?